'Overall Picture For Victory More Favourable Than Ever' Churchill Statement

SECOND FRONT PLAN TO HELP RUSSIA

A SURVEY of the Washington discussions issued in London and Washington last night revealed:—

(1) THAT MR. CHURCHILL AND PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HAVE NO DOUBT THAT THE OVERALL PICTURE IS MORE FAVOURABLE TO VICTORY THAN EITHER IN AUGUST OR DECEMBER LAST YEAR; AND
(2) COMING OPERATIONS DISCUSSED BY THE ALLIED LEADERS AND THEIR MILITARY ADVISERS WILL DIVERT GERMAN STRENGTH FROM THE ATTACK ON RUSSIA.

New Hope For Millions In Europe

New York, Saturday. MR. CHURCHILL and President Roosevelt, by their joint statement, have directed a psychological blow at the Axis, and the world is waiting tensely to see with what they will follow it.

The promise in the declarations today of coming operations to divert German strength from the attack on Russia gave a measure of hope to millions that plans to relieve the pressure on the valiant Russians would be finally crystallized.

Further room for encouragement was seen in the statement that the conference took steps to reduce the toll of merchant shipping taken by Axis raiders.

Monsieur observers heard reports that Hitler was planning to occupy all France to conduct a possible invasion.

Roy Porter, A.P. correspondent at France, who returned last November after four years there, said:—

"THE MINUTE HITLER PUSHES INTO UNOCCUPIED FRANCE HE WILL AUTOMATICALLY SET OFF A BLAZE OF FIREWORKS THAT WILL TURN INTO ANOTHER FRENCH REVOLUTION."

Porter said that such a move by Hitler was exactly what the French had been waiting for the announcement from Washington that there would be a second front in Western Europe.

Obviously the French people have no doubts, but they are ready to shoot German the instant anyone can bring them down.

PREMIER BRAVED SHELL TORNADO

Real War Thrills With President

WITH a tornado of live shells bursting over his head and hundreds of parachutists descending around him, Mr. Winston Churchill crouched in a dug-out in a peaceful little valley which was temporarily transformed into a very realistic imitation of the hell of war.

President Roosevelt, Mr. Stimson, the U.S. War Secretary, and other notables were with him as it was their premier's day off from his war talk.

Then the Premier said to this thousands of U.S. troops:—

"The day will come when British and American armies will march together, not as invaders, but as liberators, aiding one people who have been held under the cruel barbarian yoke of the Axis."

"That day may seem long to those who spend periods of training spread across weeks and months, but when the day comes it will be worth waiting for, for serving for."

BLOOD TIES
When it comes it will make friends for all the toll and discipline that has to be undergone. And it will open the world to a larger freedom and to a life of liberty and the pursuit of happiness and all that is expressed by the grand words of your declaration of independence. I always feel refreshed and cheered by a visit to America.

There is no rivalry between us. It will only be to show how we are working with men of iron will, tireless, energetic, and indomitable purpose.

WINSTON TO SPEAK LAST

I UNDERSTAND that the Prime Minister will wind up the Government's day of the Century debate which is to take place at the next meetings of the House of Commons.

The Minister of Production will speak for the Government earlier in the debate.

Marines From U.S. In S. Pacific

Atlanta, Georgia, Saturday. UNITED STATES Marine Corps Headquarters announced that thousands of marines have been landed at a South Pacific port after several weeks' voyage in convoy, which was without incident.

Major Mrs. S. Frost adds that that belated porters were landed with the marines, as well as amphibian tanks called "Alligators" and tank lighters called "Crocodiles" used for storming beaches.—Exchange.

The statement issued soon after Mr. Churchill had safely reached London—he flew from America in a giant flying boat—expressed briefly to shipping munitions and other aspects of the war.

Mr. Churchill and the President, while confident, were not complacently optimistic. "We do not under-rate the task," they warn the United Nations.

But they reveal that new shipping production is greatly increasing every month and express the hope that sinkings by U-boats will be further reduced.

That reference to "coming operations" was the only one made in the statement to the effect of the much-discussed Second Front.

So far as morale is concerned, the leaders of the great Democracies reveal that "the United Nations have never been in such hearty and detailed agreement on plans for winning the war as they are today."

The statement ran: "The week of conferences between the President and the Prime Minister covered every fully all the major problems of the war which is conducted by the United Nations on every continent and in every sea."

They have taken full cognizance of our disadvantages as well as our advantages. We do not underestimate the task we have conducted our conferences with the full knowledge of the power and resourcefulness of our enemies.

In the matter of the production of munitions of all kinds the survey gives on the whole an optimistic picture. The previously planned monthly output has not reached the maximum, but is approaching it on schedule.

"Because of the wide extension of the war to all parts of the world, transportation of the fighting forces, together with the transportation of munitions of war and supplies, still constitutes the major problem of the United Nations."

"While submarine warfare on the part of the Axis continues to take a heavy toll of cargo ships, the actual production of new tonnage is greatly increasing month by month. It is hoped that as a result of the steps planned at this conference the respective navies will further reduce the toll of merchant shipping."

"The United Nations have never been in such hearty and detailed agreement on plans for winning the war as they are today."

They recognize and applaud the Russian resistance to the main attack being made by Germany and her allies in the magnificent resistance of the Chinese Army. Detailed discussions were held with military advisers on methods to be adopted against Japan and for the relief of China.

"While our plans, for obvious reasons, cannot be disclosed, it is said that the coming operations will be discussed in detail at our Washington conference."

THE UNITED STATES AND OUR RESPECTIVE MILITARY ADVISERS WILL MEET AT WASHINGTON TO DISCUSS THE STRATEGY OF THE WAR.

The President and the Prime Minister met before, first in August, 1941, and then in December, 1941, and there is no doubt in their minds that the overall picture is more favourable to victory than it was either in August or December of last year.

New Threat To Timoshenko's Army

IRON BOOK STRIKES AT VITAL LIE

MARSHAL TIMOSHENKO LAST NIGHT WAS RUSHING UP RESERVES TO CHECK WHAT APPEARED TO BE A DOUBLE NAZI DRIVE THREATENING THE VORONEZH-ROSTOV RAILWAY AND AN OIL PIPELINE FROM ROSTOV WHICH IS AN IMPORTANT SOURCE OF SUPPLY FOR THE RUSSIAN ARMY ON THE KHARKOV FRONT.

The railway runs about 110 miles east of Kupyansk, which is in Von Bok's hands.

The pipeline ends at Lissiansk, about 60 miles south-east of Kupyansk and 140 miles north of Rostov.

Kopyansk's strategic now appears to be wider than was at first believed.

The capture of Kupyansk is itself of no great military value, but as a pivotal point for an attack on the railway and the oil line it is of considerable importance.

A victory report stated last night that Marshal Timoshenko was organising his defences in depth along a line roughly from Alexeyevka, north-east of Kharkov, to Lissiansk.

At various points on the Kupyansk sector, where the Germans have concentrated numerically superior forces, Soviet troops had previously successfully carried out successful withdrawals to a new line of defence.

Throughout Friday the Germans made several simultaneous attacks in a whole sector, but Soviet counter-attacks hurried them back from their most advanced positions.

Pensioners To Get Grants For Clothes, Pans And Bedding

OLD-AGE pensioners who do not have enough clothes or essential household equipment, such as blankets and pots and pans, are to get a grant from the Government to enable them to buy what they need.

A minimum standard of clothes in serviceable condition has been fixed.

If a pensioner has fewer clothes than are shown in the list, he—or she—will get a grant to enable him or her to buy some more.

A man's standard list is:—One suit, one overcoat, two pairs of boots or shoes, two shirts, one hat, one pair of socks, two nightgowns or pyjamas, two towels, one pair of slippers. Women's necessities are:—One dress or skirt, one jumper, one overcoat, two pairs of shoes, one hat, two vests, two knickers.

GOOD NEWS OF FOOD

Fewer Points, Greater Value

By Our Food Reporter

REDUCTIONS in many points values announced by the Ministry of Food today will be good news as well as good value for the housewife using cold meats with salads.

Pork sausage meat, reduced from 12 to 10 points a lb, and Grade salmon from 24 points to 16, will be particularly good coupon investments.

Other changes include:—U.S. luncheon meat (canned) reduced from 24 to 16 points a lb. Meat roll or quinine four points against eight.

Canned pickled, herrings and mackerel: 15 (salt) from 12 points to 10. All other items remain at 12 points a lb. (See advertisement in Page Three.)

H.G. BROTHERS' SENTENCE "OFF"

The sentence of 56 days detention passed on the two Altrincham brothers, Joseph and John, who were members of the Home Guard, has now been commuted.

At a North-West court-martial they were found guilty of using insubordinate language to an officer, and of refusing to obey commands.

with common sense. If the pensioner is bedridden he may have a greater need for bedding and no need for outdoor clothing.

If the conditions of one or all of the pensioner's stock is only fair although serviceable consideration for replacement will be given at a later date.

The cost of redeeming articles in pawn can be allowed in appropriate cases and charges for soap repairs given.

Pensioners who have at any time received an exceptional needs grant will not be valued, but may apply for another.

BY OUR MILITARY CORRESPONDENT
WITH Rommel's entire striking force massed only 15 miles away, the British defenders of Mersa Matruh were standing by yesterday in expectation of a blitzkrieg thrust at any moment.

That the time of battle is at hand was indicated by sudden intense activity by the German air force.

For days while Rommel hastily shepherded his forces from Tobruk deep into Egypt little was seen of the Luftwaffe, but Berlin reports yesterday speak of violent air battles over the advancing Axis columns and heavy raids on British aerodromes.

In simmering desert heat, Rommel has positioned practically all his forces on a five-mile front, north and south-west of Mersa Matruh.

It was seen that he intends to make a head-on attack against our defences at Alexandria at his objective.

Rommel does not like direct results of this kind. He prefers a flanking movement. But his success at Tobruk may have encouraged him to take the gamble of a lightning stroke, with his full hitting power, against well-prepared defences.

TIERED TROOPS
He still has the opportunity, however, if he chooses, of suddenly switching south and attempting to drive through the salt marshes which cover the approach to Cairo.

He cannot, and will not, let delay his decision.

His troops are tired by a month's campaigning in the African desert, to their advantage they have been continuously harassed by South African armoured vehicles on their flanks and by a superior force of British tanks.

Our troops are raiding and shooting up the enemy's advanced elements, and more than the German forces are compactly massed they offer a sitting target to our Air Force.

Last night the RAF communiqué leaders that our bombers and fighter-bombers were in action day and night against the enemy's troops and grounded air forces.

A low-level raid was made on a German landing-ground, where tanks and transport vehicles.

Our fighters destroyed eight Messerschmitts and a transport plane. Twelve of our aircraft are believed to be safe.

Hitler's Middle-East Gamble

"No one knows better than Hitler that if he takes the risk, and the losses of transport and the net result is failure to break through—right through the Allied armies to Iran—he might just as well pack up his dreams."

ALLIES WILL TURN THE TORUK TIDE

BY OUR DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENT

I WANT to stress at once, the reasoned confidence of Mr. Churchill's simple statement in America that there is no question of the loss of Egypt. In Egypt itself there is not the least sign of panic about the next phase of the campaign.

The forthcoming debate in Parliament will sift the causes of the Libyan defeat. Today I am only concerned with the realities of the new situation, and my belief is that before long the Allies will turn the Toruk tide against the enemy not only in Africa but elsewhere—and turn it with all the surge of a raging torrent.

Now that frontier strategy has been rejected, the points have been lost, it does not matter in itself whether we fall back to the other end of the desert. The intervening gain to Rommel is paradoxical—he has just that extra mile of barren waste to cover with all its attendant supply troubles. We know well how heavy they are.

Since his gains to date—including Toruk—are amiss unless he intends to continue right to the Nile valley and delta, still about 200 miles away, I am told that he has only three lines of retreat. (1) To advance for the present as long as he can do so easily, and exploit to the full the prestige value of his victory (a) by the award of a bar to the Eighth Army; (b) by appearing to be an imminent menace to the division of oil to Russia and (c) by dispersing propaganda giving Nazi propaganda more body and time to pep up the home front and to reduce Allied and Moslem morale. This he must normally follow back for a variety of practical reasons.

(2) To advance somewhat further on the off chance of snatching another sensational victory, even if only on a small scale, then stand on his new ground if he has a chance of consolidating it and preparing it for a future offensive.

(3) To continue his flying start and make it into an all-out invasion of Egypt—he may need such an opportunity again.

THE first two possibilities can be countered quickly by our own power of recuperation and determination, however painful the process may be. The Nazis know this and it means that their triumph would be short-lived and would not materialize beyond the desert.

On the third alternative may depend the development or withdrawal of Hitler's entire Middle East force. It is impossible yet to say whether Hitler has decided to go all out regardless of consequences, but I can give some indication of what he may be behind the scenes.

More than a year ago Mr. Churchill stated that we had at least 200,000 men in the desert. Allowing for all that has since happened, it may be taken for granted that the number has not decreased.

The intervening year has also seen considerable strengthening of the Middle East defences from outside the desert. The personnel. We now have the American air force in that area, and during that time Hitler has witnessed the destruction of Mussolini's armies and has suffered the loss of millions of his best men in Russia. (The loss of Rommel's army from the first round, he has taken a pounding which at one stage of the battle exhausted him no less than ourselves. He has now to face

Nation's Unpaid Debt To The Fallen

MOTHERS IN POVERTY

SPECIAL TO "THE PEOPLE"

MANY women are living in poverty in Britain today because the State refuses to pay them a pension for the death of their husbands.

They are the mothers who were left behind by the boys who went away to fight. Several M.P.s are trying to get a fair deal for them.

Mr. Jack Lawson, the Minister for the Ministry of Pensions, is championing their cause in the House.

Members of other parties are supporting him.

He has been rebuffed by Ministers. But he means to fight on.

He has been turned down at question time. But he is going to stage a full-scale debate in the House as soon as he gets the opportunity.

MEANS TEST

Some of these mothers can get pensions at present—small pensions.

But only after they have undergone the indignity of a means test.

And the pension they are granted is only given to a very small number.

Mr. Lawson feels they should have a right to pensions large enough to keep them from poverty.

For years these mothers toiled and scraped to bring their sons up. They received no reward.

They expected none.

Continuing the war, the son would normally be starting to bring home decent wages, he would be a man.

But he does not return.

Then son would have kept his mother in her old age.

It is hard, thinks Mr. Lawson, that in addition to losing the son, she should also lose the financial help that he would be able to give her.

So, he says, "we must give pensions to the mothers of the boys who die for their country."

The amount of fuel used in fun fairs, the letter adds, would not justify discrimination against them on this point.

MANNEQUIN'S STORY OF SHOT OFFICER

BECAUSE he was terribly overworked at the bank Squadron-Leader Maurice Roy Skelton, aged twenty-four, of East-road Edgware, ended his life by a shot in a York hotel.

The story was told at the inquest at York, yesterday, by Jeanette Campbell, a London matron.

Skelton, she said, was married to a child. He should have reported for duty on June 18, but did not do so.

On Friday morning I noticed something funny in his pocket, she said. He was carrying a small bag, she said, and he had a very angry and nearly strangled me.

I went to the bathroom, and as he did not answer to my knock, I climbed through the window. I found him dead with a revolver in his hand.

Verdict: Suicide while the balance of his mind was disturbed.

BIG CUT IN POULTRY

One Hen Per Person Is Backyard Limit

OWING to the decrease in the supplies of imported feeding stuffs, the numbers of poultry in the country will have to be cut, and the remaining hens will have to go on rations obtained on a card.

Nearly a million families—keepers of backyard poultry—will be affected by new regulations announced today by the Ministry of Agriculture.

From October they must surrender their egg rations in exchange for food for their hens.

The effect of the scheme will be to limit the number of birds kept to one per head of the family, except where arrangements are made with neighbours to supply them with eggs in return for their own food and egg rations.

The allowance of feeding stuffs will be based on the number of egg registrations surrendered, since the quantity of food waste—which should supply the bulk of the food for the hens—is dependent on the number of persons in the household.

For example, a family of four of half a dozen people surrendering their egg registrations for six months will receive a feeding stuffs ration card allowing the purchase of 24 lb. of balancer meal—sufficient to feed six hens for six months.

The new regulations also bring flocks of more than 25 birds—as against the present 10—within the London Egg (Control) Order.

If you keep more than 25 hens after the new regulations, you must apply to a licensed buyer or packing station.

These revisions have been made necessary owing to the decrease in food. It may sometimes talk too much, but what woman doesn't?

No New Shackles On Fun Fairs

MR. HERBERT MORRISON, THE HOME SECRETARY, HAS DECIDED NOT TO IMPOSE NEW RESTRICTIONS ON FUN FAIRS.

A letter to Mr. Basil L. Q. Herries, warden of the Barnard Baron St. George's Jewish settlement, says that he has reached this decision after considering reports from the Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police, chief constable of two or three towns where fun fairs have attracted public notice, and representations from other quarters.

The amount of fuel used in fun fairs, the letter adds, would not justify discrimination against them on this point.
